Tumultuous Scenes

In the House of Congress Over Election Contests.

FILIBUSTERING FOILED.

Speaker Reed Decides That a Congressman is Present Whether He Votes or Not—The Silver Coinage Question a Feature of the Senatorial Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The wildest and most tumultuous scene since reconstruction times, was enacted in the house yesterday, over the motion to take up the Smith-Jackson West Virginia election case. After the house had passed a bill relieving the political disabilities of D. C. Smith, of Texas, Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, called upon the West Virginia contested election case.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, raised the question of consideration, and filibustering at once began. On this the Democrats generally refused to vote. While the roll was being called Speaker Reed noted the names of those present and not voting. When the vote was announced it was found that 161 votes were in the affirmative and 2 in the negative.

Mr. Crisp at once raised the point of "no quorum," and Speaker Reed directed the clerk to record the names, a list of which he had kept, of members not voting but present. A loud shout of approval was raised on the Republican side. Then, as the names of the Democrats were read, members got up in their places and protested against their names being recorded against their will.

Mr. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, when his name was called, took the floor and denounced the action of the speaker as "revolutionary." With this the Democrats stood up and cheered him, or shouted their protests by cries of "czar," which the Republicans characterized as the "rebel yell." The scene at this moment on the floor of the house was one of tumult and riot.

When quiet was partially restored, Speaker Reed said he was simply announcing a fact, not voting for members. Subsequently he made a long statement in justification of his course, quoting precedents to maintain the correctness of his position, and citing the action of Governor Hill, of New York, while presiding officer of the New York state senate, in deciding that three-fifths of the members present, although some of them refrained from voting, as precisely similar to his present decision.

Another process, he said, which every old member would recognize, whereby the opinion of the chair is accepted as incontestable evidence of the recognition of the right to record members present as constituting part of a quorum, who did not vote, was seen in the every day occurrence at certain stages of the session of the house when votes were announced by the chair containing obviously and emphatically no quorum. Yet if the point was not made, the bill was always declared passed, and that could only be a very distinct basis, and that was that everybody present silently agreed to the fact that there was a quorum.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, appealed from the decision of the chair and quoted from Speaker Blaine's ruling on the force bill to the effect that the speaker had not the power to count a quorum, and declared that Speaker Reed's decision just made, would be the foundation of the greatest legislative fraud ever committed. He quoted the remarks of Mr. Reed, in former years while on the floor of the house, in which he used these words: "The constitutional idea of a quorum is not the physical presence of a majority of the members of the house, but a majority of the members present and participating in the business of the house."

"I appeal," Mr. Crisp exclaimed, "from Phillip Drunk to Phillip Sober."

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, said the constitution decided the question at issue, and said plainly: "The majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business," but it did not say that a majority should be required to vote for a measure, a motion or resolution, in order to pass it.

Mr. Carlisle, of Kentucky, said this decision was not a question of parliamentary law, but of constitutional law. No speaker had ever before decided that less than a quorum could pass any bill or vote in the house. If this ruling was correct, there was no necessity for any provision of the constitution defining what less than a quorum could do. A majority constituted a quorum "to do business," but those words were not in the constitution of the state of New York, upon which Lieutenant Governor Hill's decision had been based.

Mr. McKinley took the floor, but yielded to a motion to adjourn, which was carried without division. The matter will come up again as soon as the house meets, probably on the question of approving the journal.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The feature in the senate was the speech by Mr. Mitchell on the silver coinage question. A communication from the secretary of the navy was presented to the senate transmitting the "policy" report, and expressing his belief in the capacity of the country to build the eight battle ships recommended by the department. The senate adopted a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to debts due by southern states on Indian trust funds and on the direct tax of 1861.

Mr. Mitchell addressed the senate on the bill for the free coinage of silver, in accordance with previous notice. Mr. Mitchell said the pending bill was not a demand for the issue of an unlimited money, as all agreed that such a policy would be suicidal. He considered the question as one of the most important that had been brought before the country. It was not a party question. The question was whether the double standard of money should be re-established, or whether gold alone should be the monetary standard. Should the American idea on that subject be abandoned and that of Great Britain adopted? Was the financial ship of America to sail only in the wake of the Golden tramps of Great Britain?

It was a contention in the main between the rich and the poor, between the creditor class and the debtor class. It involved a gigantic effort, or perhaps the term "conspiracy" would not be inappropriate on the part of a special class and its allies to depress values in order that the price of the creditor's bond, the note and mortgage and gold coin might be increased in value, and their power of absorption augmented. It was a bill, however, to provide for a sufficient amount of circulating medium, by which to meet the largely increasing business of the country, and which would tend to check the alarming decline in the value of farms, farm products and other commodities.

Mr. Mitchell favored free coinage of silver as the only way to restore and secure National prosperity, and to give silver the debt-paying functions of legal tender, and also to provide for the issue of legal tender certificates based upon silver coinage.

Mr. Vance gave notice that he would to-day speak on the bill to provide for the emigration of colored people.

The senate then, after a short secret session adjourned.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

But Two Hundred Yards of Drift Yet Remaining.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—The rotary plow, which has been making a big fight in the Sierras toward raising the blockade on the Central Pacific road, broke down yesterday in the final drift remaining near Cascade. The plow had been working for fifteen days continually and it was thought the big machine would hold together until the road was cleared, but the strain was too much, and it was completely disabled when only 200 yards of snow bank remained. An army of shovelers remained at work all night to clear away the remaining snow obstructing five cars of delayed mail which were sent west from Reno last night, and which will be the first train through.

John Coughlin, telegraph operator at Cisco, died at his lonely station four days ago of pneumonia. Three men, including a doctor, went to his aid on snow shoes, but arrived too late to save his life, and he was buried in a snow drift. His body was removed to Sacramento yesterday, where his funeral took place.

Mrs. McVean, wife of Surgeon A. C. McVean, of Jefferson barracks, died at Truckee Monday of diphtheria, while on one of the westbound trains. Yesterday Lucia Zuretta, the "Mexican Midwife," said to be the smallest human being in the world, a passenger on the same train, died at Truckee from gastric fever.

Athenaeum Company at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 30.—The Boston Howard Athenaeum company, which had been snowed up in the Western mountains for the past nine days, arrived here yesterday evening. The members of the company, although they suffered no severe hardship, are unanimously pleased at being able to experience the luxuries of civilization again after their imprisonment in the snow.

Manager Thacker lays all the blame of their delay on the railway company, which insisted on the futile attempt to send the snow bound train east from Shady Run, Cal., when comparatively clear tracks west would have permitted them to reach Alta, and thence a free route east. In the matter of food, the snow bound passengers were compelled to take potluck with the Chinese snow shovelers, or provide their own means of subsistence. They preferred the latter.

National League Ball Meeting.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The National League meeting was in session four hours yesterday and adjourned until today. The special committee on law reported that the Philadelphia case was being pushed and that the New York case against Ward, though an injunction had been refused, the court had upheld the claim of the League that it has an option on the players' services for 1890. The committee recommended suits in every League city where necessary. The report was adopted. The negotiations committee reported 300 applications for positions received from players and a number engaged. This report was also accepted. This constituted the business of the day. Delegates were present from all the clubs.

Latest From Brazil.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The British steamer Advance, from various ports in Brazil, has just arrived. Quietness prevailed everywhere in the new republic when the Advance started on her voyage. When the Advance sailed from here in December E. B. Brownell, of Brooklyn, was among her taloon passengers. He went to Barbados, and while a guest of a hotel there committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. He was supposed to have been suffering from temporary insanity. His remains were brought home by the Advance.

Killed in a Mine Shaft.

HURLEY, Wis., Jan. 30.—An accident occurred at the Montreal mine last evening, which resulted in the death of an Italian named Dominick Giovanni, and the serious injury of Giuseppe Giovanni and two other workmen. They were coming to the surface with the skip when the hoisting rope broke, causing the bucket and its human freight to fall to the bottom of the shaft. Giovanni will die.

Lusters Strike.

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Jan. 31.—The thirty-five lusters employed in the factory of R. G. Haskell, at East Weymouth, struck Tuesday against a reduction of six cents per case. The firm employs 300 hands and do a large business. Unless some settlement is made the factory will have to shut down.

Brazil Recognized

By the President of the United States.

REPRESENTATIVES RECEIVED.

The President Receives the Credentials of Seniors Valentine and Mendonca, the Envoys from Brazil, and Completed the Formal Recognition of the Provisional Government of the United States of Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The completion of the formal recognition of the United States of Brazil, occurred at the executive mansion yesterday afternoon, when Dr. Valente, the new minister accredited by the provisional government, and Mr. Mendonca, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to this country, called and presented their credentials to President Harrison.

VALENTE

Secretary Blaine accompanied the two representatives of the new Brazilian republic, and presented them to the president. The ceremonies took place in the blue room and were marked by great cordiality.

Dr. Valente, upon presenting his credentials, spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: It is gratifying to me to have the honor of placing in your excellency's hands the letter by which the chief of the provisional government of the United States of Brazil has been pleased to confirm me in the capacity of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States of America. Giving expression to the sentiments and the earnest wishes which animate the new government of Brazil towards this great republic, and following my own impulses as well, I beg to assure you, Mr. President, that I shall omit no effort of any kind to cultivate the friendly relations that have ever existed between our two countries. I feel very happy to have once more the occasion to express to your excellency the wishes of the government and people of Brazil for the increasing prosperity of the American people.

President Harrison replied as follows: MR. MINISTER: I receive you as the representative of a new republic—always a grateful duty to the government of the United States. The peaceful course of events that has transformed the empire of Brazil into the United States of Brazil has been observed with deep interest by the government and people of this country. It is a source of profound satisfaction to the American people that the provisional government of the Brazilian republic came into power without bloodshed and without violence. I trust this circumstance may prove a happy augury of peace, progress and prosperity in the career which now opens to the United States of Brazil. Speaking for the people of this country, it will be my constant aim to cultivate the most friendly relations with your government; to increase the personal intercourse, and to enlarge the commercial exchanges between the two republics. I trust, Mr. Minister, that you will find in the capital a pleasant residence, as I am sure you will receive a warm welcome.

Mr. Mendonca then addressed the president and said:

MR. PRESIDENT: The chief of the provisional government of the United States of Brazil, has entrusted me with the affairs of the extraordinary and special mission near the government of the United States of America, reviewing the powers heretofore conferred upon the three ministers recorded by your excellency on November last. In the fulfillment of my mission I shall endeavor to deserve the confidence and the esteem of your excellency and your government. Placing in your hands my credentials, after the change of institutions in my country, by which in a few hours an empire fell without the sacrifice of a single life, as the completion of a political revolution born in the same cradle of your independence, it is very gratifying to me to assure your excellency that the Brazilian nation is proud to-day of its place in the communion of republics of our continent, all inspired by the same spirit of freedom, peace and civilization, and that knowing the principles of her sisterhood, Brazil shall do her duty to its full extent.

To this the president replied:

MR. MINISTER: This government is happy to receive you on the special mission with which you are entrusted by the provisional government of the United States of Brazil with the full rank of envoy extraordinary. The secretary of state of the United States is appointed with full authority to confer with you on the special matters with which you are charged by your government. You will be cordially received in this capital with all the courtesy due to your high rank.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Three Men Killed at a Saw Mill in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30.—A horrible boiler explosion occurred at the saw mill of A. B. Leech, on Falling Rock creek, twenty-five miles from here, yesterday, which killed three men. The mill had dropped to tighten a loose belt. Eight men were working in and near the mill when, a few minutes before noon, a terrific explosion occurred, demolishing the mill and machinery.

Joe Wright, aged 20, was filling a saw when the explosion occurred. The saw was broken to pieces, one piece cutting Wright's throat from ear to ear. He leaves a wife and child at Wellston, O. Morgan Hoover was blown one hundred yards distant, and driven feet foremost into a hollow log up to his waist, horribly torn and mangled, and killed instantly, leaves a widow and seven children.

Bud Mullins, aged 23, single, had his skull crushed, cut in the abdomen, eyes and face scalded. He lived only a few hours. Cause of the explosion not known. The engineer says there was plenty of water in the boiler. The mill had only started operations Monday after a shut down for repairs.

A HEARTLESS MOTHER.

She Sends Her Little Child Floating Down a River.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 30.—News has reached here from Jonesboro, about one hundred miles east of this place, on the Wantaga river, concerning something that almost rivals a combination of cruel and mischievous fiction. Last week, while some parties were out on the river gunning for ducks, their attention was attracted to a barrel floating down the stream.

Of course there is nothing remarkable in this, but at some one of the party's suggestion they "made for it" in their boat, and on coming within reach, to their amazement and utter astonishment they found that it contained a passenger. A bright-eyed 3 or 4-year old child was seated in the bottom of the little craft, seemingly satisfied with his surroundings.

The barrel contained, besides the child a pillow and quilt, also water and a scanty supply of rations, consisting of a quart bottle about half full of milk, half a dozen biscuits and some little knick-knacks. A scrap of paper was pinned to the little fellow's clothing, bearing the name "Willie" on one side, and the following inscription on the other:

My little boy, we now part forever. 'Tis the work of fate; though the road you are to travel seems perilous, to mine it is no comparison. You will never know me or nothing about your birth. But, should you safely reach your journey's end, console yourself with these words, "I was born honorable." May God bless you forever. Good-by.

MORRIS. The child, from appearances, had been in this situation from twenty-four to thirty-six hours. Various are the surmises put forth by the good citizens of the community in regard to the monstrous piece of crime, and steps are being taken by the proper authorities to lay the crime where it belongs. Willie has been cared for by one of his rescuers, and at last accounts was doing well.

WOMEN SUFFRAGIST.

Delegates Chosen to the National Convention at Washington.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—The Ohio Women Suffrage association at their meeting yesterday decided to canvass the state for more names for their petition to the legislature, to make a poll of all adult females desiring suffrage. They endorsed Governor Campbell's ballot reform scheme by adopting a resolution in favor of the Australian system of voting. They propose to make a concentrated effort to secure an amendment to the state constitution by having the word "male" stricken from Section 5 and Article 1.

Yesterday evening Mrs. Mary E. Haggart, of Indianapolis, addressed the suffragists. The following delegates were chosen to the National convention at Washington: Mrs. N. Coe Stewart, of Cleveland; Mrs. M. Cole, of Painesville; Mrs. E. S. Fray and Mrs. Anna Mott, of Toledo; Mrs. M. C. Brown and Mrs. H. C. Whitman, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Elizabeth Cort and Mrs. Alice Peters, of Columbus; Mrs. Phoebe McKell, of Chillicothe; Mrs. P. Reeves, of Frankfort; Mrs. M. L. Elwell, of Willoughby; Mrs. H. T. Upton, of Warren; Mrs. C. M. Everhart, of Massillon; Dr. Catharine Hunt, of Akron; Mrs. H. Monroe, of Xenia; with Mrs. Townsend and Annie McLean Marsh, of Cincinnati, as alternates.

A BRUTAL HUSBAND.

He Attempts Suicide Because Neighbors Objected to His Abusing His Wife.

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 30.—Charles Rowland a prominent young man of this city, was besieged by infuriated neighbors early yesterday morning and almost mobbed, for ill-treating his wife, who had been compelled to seek refuge at her parents' home to escape personal abuse.

Rowlands was just above to move the furniture when the crowd, composed mainly of women, chased him in the house, and kept up a continual racket with tin pans, and volleys of abusive epithets. When Rowlands opened the door he was assaulted with missiles of all kinds, and he became so angry that he went into a fit. It required powerful remedies to bring him through.

In the afternoon, as he lay in bed, he drank several ounces of liquid ammonia and called for a revolver, saying he wanted to end his life. Physicians pumped the poison out of him, but he is in a critical condition. The action of the neighbors meets with no comment on the part of people who are acquainted with the circumstances.

FRANKLIN, O., Jan. 30.—Mr. M. A. Tensdale, a highly respected hardware merchant of this place, attempted suicide yesterday. The method employed was a novel one, the would-be suicide attempting to blow his head off by the explosion of a can of powder in an out-house. His injuries, while serious, are not necessarily fatal.

A Very Tame Affair.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Peter Jackson and Jack Ashton sparred at an exhibition under the auspices of the Union Athletic club last night, in Music Hall. They had four three-minute rounds, very tamely done. Sullivan was among the 2,500 spectators.

Boycotting Condemned.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 30.—The master builders convention yesterday condemned boycotting and provided for arbitration. John J. Tucker, of New York, was elected president and Arthur McAllister, of Cleveland, first vice president.

THE EVENING BULLETIN

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors

THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1890.

A PARTY writing from Frankfort says never was there a soberer or better behaved Legislature than the present one. This is worthy of note.

Commissioner Porter and Congressman Wilson have agreed to recommend Ed C. Orear, of Mt. Sterling, to the President for Census Supervisor of this district.

Hon. T. F. Marshall and Mr. J. P. Reese, of Augusta, and Ex-Congressman Clarke, of Brooksville, have declined to make the race for delegate to represent Bracken County in the Constitutional convention. Their main reason is that they don't wish to engage in a scramble for the honor.

These are some of the things that made up a New Jersey divorce case: The wife spit in her husband's tea; hit him with a brick; threatened him with a knife; threw ice-water over him while in bed; cut off his mustache; obliged him to eat in the dark; cut six of his shirts into strings; and then, sealing herself at the piano, played Annie Laurie.—Exchange.

The Owensboro Messenger gave full details of the recent lynching at that place the morning after it occurred, and now all the employees of the paper, from the editor down to the devil, have been summoned before the grand jury to tell what they know about the hanging. Editor Woodson tersely informs the court that it is a paper's business to publish the news, and the grand jury's business to find out the truth of the matter—if it can. All of which is to the point, but if the court knows its business the grand jury will know all about the lynching before they get through with Mr. Woodson and the Messenger office.

The Republican in a recent issue remarked: "During 1889 the Lexington police made 2,592 arrests, of which 1,453 were colored and 1,139 uncolored, showing that the colored citizen of the bluegrass is not much worse than his white fellow-man after all." The Democrat, of Nicholasville, comes back at Brother Davis and says: "The only difference that we can see is that an average of one-eighth of the entire colored population of Fayette County was arrested, against about one fortieth of the white population." So it seems that the "colored citizen of the blue grass" is a great deal worse "than his white fellow man after all."

The Direct Tax bill has passed the Republican Senate and will find smooth sailing in the Republican House. Harrison hasn't the courage to veto it, and as a result the National Treasury will be emptied of several million dollars. Then the service Pension bill will likely be passed, emptying the treasury of millions more. The Republicans are determined to knock out that surplus and they are getting a good ready to do it. The prediction is made that "before the close of the Fifty-first Congress there will not be a dollar of surplus left in the Treasury, and taxes upon all the necessities of life will be increased, and taxes upon all the luxuries of life will be reduced, and in many cases entirely abolished."

"The Direct Tax bill passed by the United States Senate is the embodiment of vicious and brutal legislation," says the Louisville Times. "The tax was levied and collected nearly 30 years ago. The States that paid it are now rich and prosperous and by no means paupers; it was levied on wealth, and not on labor—based on what a man had, not on what he was bound to buy—consequently it was a just tax, and such a tax as all taxes ought to be. It was a constitutional tax, and the States that paid it have no more right to recover it than the heirs of a tax-payer of Washington's day have a right to recover taxes paid by their ancestors. It illustrates the paternal plan of collecting taxes off the people, at great cost, to return the taxes to the people."

The Chicago Herald wants to find a man anywhere in the United States who is able to point to a solitary circumstance connected with the Harrison Administration which has not in one way or another had something to do either with plundering the people by means of tariffs, subsidies or pensions, or with the placing of some patriot in a fat office? "If this administration has done anything else since it came into power, nearly a year ago, what is it," asks the Herald? "If Benjamin Harrison has had anything to say or to do relative to anything else than official spoils and monopolistic plunder, what has it been? These questions are asked in all seriousness. The people of the United States are so accustomed to the hypocritical Republican pretense of superiority that much of that party's disgraceful conduct passes unnoticed. Here is a record, however, which is entirely characteristic, and which should not be forgotten."

The Boston Herald remarks that "not since the days when Schuyler Colfax went under a cloud and faded away from public notice has there been such a case of utter, absolute, abject extinction of a politician as is found in that of J. B. Foraker. Mr. Colfax was an amiable gentleman, and a good many men were grieved at the hard fate that his imprudence called down on him. But who is left to mourn for Foraker? Hardly one outside the office of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, and even there the deluded admiration for this unvelled Mokanna is not likely to be long continued." Foraker deserves but little sympathy. He brought his ruin upon himself.

"If a protective tariff as a means of limiting competition is good in the abstract, Congress should at once, if it has the power, divide the United States into six parts, so that each one would be able to get rich by fencing out all competition."

These words were uttered by a Republican—Congressman Butterworth, of Ohio. Although he was elected by Republicans and votes and acts with Republicans, yet when it comes to the tariff he talks good Democratic talk. And there are lots of Republicans like him, except they haven't the courage to express their real sentiments on this tariff reform question.

Free Lance Says Something About That Soap Factory.

We are in hearty sympathy with the suggestion of a soap factory in the old slaughter house. The place is already equipped with the necessary troughs, kettles, furnaces, etc., so that the expense of starting it would be comparatively small.

Every business man in the community could afford to take at least one share of stock at $5 a share in consideration of the immediate return he would receive in the shape of the wages received by the laborers and paid back to him or his neighbors for supplies. Whence this lack of interest?

The Thomas Trial.

The evidence in the Thomas trial was finished this morning. The first argument in the case was made by Judge Whitaker, for defendant. He was followed by Mr. Worthington for the State. Mr. Robertson will speak for the defense this afternoon, and Mr. Sallee will close for the Commonwealth.

The case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

BOURBON FARM

For Sale, Privately.

I offer for sale, privately, my farm of about 200 ACRES, lying on and one-half miles from Millersburg, on the Cynthia and Millersburg Turnpike, and one mile from the Maysville and Lexington Turnpike. The improvements consist of a good comfortable frame house of eight rooms, and double mill; two good barns, nice buggy house, and all new out-buildings. One of the barns will hold six to eight acres of tobacco. Fine young orchard of about forty trees, some of them bearing. There are fine pools of never-failing water on the land, and everything that goes to make it a first class farm. The land is situated so as to give a fine view of Millersburg. Almost the entire farm is in grass, some of it having been in this state for many years. The fencing is in No. 1 order, and is of stone, wire, picket, swinging and worm fence. There is also on the land, about one-fourth of a mile from the residence, a good tenant house of three rooms, smoke house, &c. More than 100 acres of the place is good tobacco land. For terms call on me on the place, or address me at Millersburg, Bourbon County. j30win J. H. HAMILTON.

"Enoch Arden" To-night

The press of Chicago, as well as that of St. Louis and Kansas City, where "Enoch Arden" has recently been staged, unanimously endorse it as one of the greatest dramatic productions ever given in these cities. The promises of Mr. Beers and Mr. Hoyt have been faithfully kept and a series of splendid stage pictures will be presented upon the appearance of Mr. Beers and his company here to-night. A special set of scenery is carried which can be adapted to any stage.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE LEATHER!

The author of this proverb is unknown. In a spelling-book much used in our grandmothers' days will be found the following lines, which perhaps gave the origin of it:

A town feared a siege and held consultation,
Which was the best means of fortification;
A grave, skilful mason said, in his opinion,
Nothing like stone would secure the dominion;

A carpenter said, though that was well spoke,
It was better, by far, to defend it with oak;
A currier, wiser than both these together,
Said, try what you please, "There's nothing like leather."

If the honest old currier was alive to-day he would be surprised at the many kinds of leather made—made solely for cheapness, without reference to service or durability—a snare and a disappointment to the wearer. His advice would be to buy that which is ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE.

COLONEL JOHN MASON BROWN.

One of the Most Prominent Republicans of the State Passes Away at Louisville.

Colonel John Mason Brown, a distinguished lawyer and one of the most prominent Republicans of the State, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at his home in Louisville.

He was taken with a deep cold a week or so ago that soon resulted in pneumonia. The most faithful nursing and most watchful care of his devoted family and friends, and the best medical attention failed to check the progress of the disease. An hour before his death he realized that it was useless to take any more medicine and so told the physicians.

Before he was taken ill he prepared a bill to establish a public park at Louisville. He was much interested in the matter, and the Times says: "During his semi-delirious state he talked of it continually. 'Do you think it will pass?' he would ask with intense interest, and, when assured that it would, seemed satisfied. His lungs were congested and that fact attracted his attention. He would strike his breast as forcibly as his strength would permit, and say: 'Lungs! Lungs! That is what the people want; give them places where they can breathe pure air.'"

The deceased was well known and had many warm friends here, especially among the legal fraternity. He delivered the address at the unveiling of the soldiers' monument a year or so ago. That was his last visit to Maysville. Colonel Brown leaves a wife and four children, two boys and two girls.

Railway News.

An electric railway 250 miles long, from Atlanta, Ga., to Savannah, has been planned. The electricity will be generated in a novel way, by utilizing power from the current of rivers along the route. The enterprise is one of much importance. "If water power from a river current can be successfully used to generate large quantities of electricity, there is no end to the mechanical possibilities that will follow," says an electrician of Cincinnati. "Why," he exclaimed, "you have no idea of the force that the Ohio river contains that might be utilized by water wheels placed on barges in the stream. There is a great amount of power there that can be used. Even at low water it is sufficient for all practical purposes."

A project is on foot to get M. E. Ingalls, of the Big Four, to extend that road to Louisville over the route of the old Covington & Louisville railroad, which was undertaken in 1851-53, but went to the wall prematurely.

River News.

The Bostona will be sent to Memphis this evening and the W. N. Chancellor takes her place in the Pomeroy trade.

Due up: Rainbow for Pittsburg and Chancellor for Pomeroy at midnight. Down: Andes at 2 p. m. and St. Lawrence at midnight.

OVER 1,800 votes were polled Saturday at the Democratic primary in Pendleton County. The nominees are: "For County Judge, John H. Barker; Attorney, R. W. Holland; Clerk, W. C. Holt; Sheriff, J. D. Logan; Assessor, Augustus Colvin; Coroner, Samuel Decoursey; Surveyor, J. H. Cummins; Jailor, J. M. Adams.

WILL H. WILSON, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Wilson, was married a few days ago at Jeffersonville, Ind., to Miss Ianthe Willis Brown, of Shelbyville, Kentucky. The Louisville Times says: "For the past two years Mr. Wilson has been connected with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Miss Brown is the daughter of S. H. Brown, of Shelbyville, and is well known among the society circles of her home as well as in this city. The friends of both join in wishing them much joy."

HENRY E. HOYT, of the Metropolitan Opera House, and the New York Casino, personally conceived and executed the scenic accessories with which Newton Beers' revival of "Enoch Arden" is illuminated. The well-known artist has authorized the statement that there will be nothing before the public during the coming season that will surpass the stage effects with which he has framed Mr. Beers' production of this beautiful play. Mr. Hoyt's work will cover an extended range, from a wild Cornish coast scene full of life and animation at the opening, to the mellow calm of a tropical picture in the Isle of Pains. At opera house to-night.

Ten Million Dollars.

The Amount Chicago Will Raise for the World's Fair.

HER PRESENT FUND DOUBLED.

Five Million Dollars Additional to Be Raised by the Issuance of Bonds—The Fact Telegraphed to George R. Davis at Washington.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—At a prolonged meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago world's exposition yesterday afternoon, Mayor Creiger was instructed, after the passage of a resolution, to send the following telegram to Col. George R. Davis at Washington:

"By action of the executive committee of the Chicago world's exposition, it is proposed to increase the fund to $10,000,000 by the issuance of $5,000,000 in bonds. D. C. CREIGER, Chairman."

This matter has been in contemplation for some time, and in view of the satisfactory condition of the finances and the liberality and public spirit displayed by the people of Chicago and the northwest generally, it was deemed best to take such action at this time, in order to assure congress that Chicago will do her share towards making the exposition the greatest success possible.

Mr. Otto Young, in offering the resolution providing for the issuance of $5,000,000 in bonds, in addition to the $5,000,000 guarantee fund already subscribed, said it had never been questioned that Chicago would do more or as much as any other city competing for the exposition. Mr. Young added to the enthusiasm of the meeting by volunteering to take $100,000 of the bonds.

Mr. William J. Onahan, who as city treasurer has felt the pulse of the people, felt confident that Chicago would, if the proper efforts were made, double its stock subscriptions.

Mr. James W. Scott urged the advantage of the resolution proposed, because of the near approach of the final struggle in congress.

Mayor Creiger approved of the prevailing sentiment and concurred in the opinion expressed by Messrs. Young, Scott and Onahan, and Alderman Dixon added his endorsement.

Mr. Bryan explained the feeling in congress, and Mr. Waller declared that he was heartily in favor of prompt action in the premises. He had always understood that Chicago would issue $5,000,000 in bonds, or $10,000,000 if necessary. The mayor, in response to this, exclaimed: "Let's do it."

Mr. Scott seconded Mr. Young's motion, and made a speech in support of his position. Alderman Dixon reiterated Mr. Waller's statement that $5,000,000 bonds could readily be floated.

Mr. Onahan insisted that the resolution should be carried in unmistakable terms; and it was in view of this that Mr. Young's motion was put in the form of a resolution and passed as follows:

RESOLVED, That in addition to the $5,000,000 stock subscriptions, $5,000,000 in bonds be issued, thereby increasing the fund to $10,000,000.

Mississippians Favor Chicago.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 30.—Both houses yesterday had before them the question of the world's fair, and adopted a joint resolution favoring holding the fair west of the Allegheny mountains. An effort was made in the senate to obtain an expression favorable to St. Louis, but it failed. (Chicago seems to be more generally favored by the people of Mississippi.)

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Religious Fanatic Pours Coal Oil Over His Head and Sets It on Fire.

MARION, Ind., Jan. 30.—A highly sensational affair, probably the result of religious frenzy, occurred yesterday at 11 o'clock, at Fairmount. Jacob Adell, the victim, was 55 years old, and has a wife and three children. At the hour stated he left Norton's store, where he was employed, and went home. Taking a can of coal oil he went to an out-house, poured the oil over his head, thoroughly saturating the upper portion of his body and set himself on fire.

The commotion that followed, caused by his frantic struggles, attracted attention, and neighbors saw smoke issuing from the building. As they ran to put out the fire Adell rushed out and fell to the ground, where a few paroxysms of agony ended in death. His face, neck and the upper part of his body were burned beyond recognition. Adell's self-immolation is supposed to be the result of insanity caused by religious fanaticism. A month ago he left the Quaker church to become a disciple of Frank Norton, whose creed teaches self-sacrifice. It is supposed that to propitiate the Almighty he committed the frightful act described.

Still in Canada.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—A few years ago Clark Seeds, a farmer's son living south of Columbus, was arrested for wrecking a Midland train. When released on bail he skipped, and nothing was heard of him until recently, when a telegram from Springfield, Ont., announced Seeds' death by cars. When the train on the Midland was wrecked a week ago it was rumored that Seeds had done the job for revenge, but inquiry has developed the fact that he has been in Canada all the time.

They were refused admittance, and broke in, when they were informed that Straum had been taken away by the sheriff some time before.

Armed companies soon started for every county seat in the counties adjoining. One squad went down into No Man's Land, thinking the sheriff had gone there. ## Nervousness in Horses.

There is one respect in which all the most distinguished trotters have resembled each other, and that is in their nervous energy, in high spirit and courage. That flame which the Washington Hollow horseman detected in the eye of Flora Temple came out afterward in the resolute burst of speed with which she finished her last miles. Dexter was represented as being "chock full of fire and devilry," and capable of jumping like a cat. Hiram Woodruff spoke of his "wicked head." Goldsmith Maid had a strong will of her own, and the excitement she betrayed on the eve of a race showed how fine was her organization. "She would stand quietly enough," says her driver, "while being hitched to the sulky, although she had been previously kicking and plunging in her stall, but she would shake and tremble until I have heard her feet make the same noise against the hard ground that a person's teeth will when the body is suddenly chilled; that is, her feet actually chattered on the ground."

"The instant I would get into the sulky all this would pass away, and she would start in a walk for the track as sober as any old horse you ever saw." Hirus was so nervous that he never could have been driven with safety on the road, and his courage was of the finest temper. St. Julian was exceedingly high strung, and in hands less patient and discreet than those of his trainer might never have been subdued to the purpose of racing. Jay-Eye-See, though I know less of his personal history, is notorious for the pluck he showed on the last quarters of his hard miles, and Maud S. is the most spirited, the most determined and at the same time the gentlest of animals.—H. C. Merwin in Atlantic Monthly.

Popular Libraries.

There is nothing that so arouses an interest in an institution of this kind as a spirited contest over the election of officers. Take the Merchants' Exchange, for instance, or the Commercial Travelers' association; both are stronger and better in every way after the exciting elections they always hold for officers. In Cincinnati one of the institutions of which they are the proudest is the Mercantile library, and the honor of being its president for one year is so highly prized that contests of such friendly fierceness rage that the papers are full of news of the campaign for weeks. Eminent citizens are placed on the rival tickets, and their friends rally to their support. I am told of one case where so ambitious was a wealthy safe-maker to secure the coveted honor that on the day before the election he purchased yearly membership for his 1,200 employees, and they marched to his aid in a solid body the next day. Similar instances, but not quite so extensive, have been frequent, and the result of the agitation is to keep the library constantly before the people, with a result that its membership is constantly swelling, and it is, by reason of its wealth, one of the finest libraries in the country.—Librarian in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Stopped the English Scheme.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—United States Bank Commissioner Hepburn yesterday took possession of the Sixth National bank of this city, which was lately sold out to an alleged English syndicate. ## PRICES CURRENT.

Review of the Money, Stock and Cattle Quotations for Jan. 29.

Money on call loaned at 3@3½ per cent. throughout the morning. Currency sizes, 116 bid; four coupon, 124 bid; four-and-a-half do, 104½ bid.

The stock market this morning was weak and heavy during the greater part. The features of the trading were: Sugar Refineries, Louisville and Nashville and New York and New England, Richmond and West Point, Missouri Pacific, and Chicago and East Illinois common and preferred. Louisville and Nashville were the only stocks that showed any strength. Sugar Trusts made the widest fluctuations. They opened 2 per cent lower at 62 and sold down to 59½ in a few minutes. From this there was a recovery to 62½, and a reaction to 61 again by noon. The Chicago and East Illinois common declined ¼ and the preferred 2. New England declined fractionally. The general list by noon, with few exceptions was ¼ to 1½ per cent. below those of last night. At this writing the market is dull.
